

Agnes "Aggie" Moomaw

August 17, 1930 - December 3, 2021

Agnes Margaret Moomaw, "Aggie" to many, of Omak, passed away on December 3, 2021, at the age of 91.

Aggie is predeceased by her parents, Fred Bemus and Mary Morissey (Schily), and her husband Wade Moomaw. She is survived by her children, Marty Robbins, Marla Moomaw, Tim Moomaw, and her grandchildren, Andrew Robbins, Amanda Robbins, Turk Bates, Alyssa Polson and great grandchildren, Olivia and Jhene.

Aggie was born August 17, 1930, in Lemmon, South Dakota. Although Aggie was an only child, her two cousins Ida and Rose Dearborn were like her sisters. Their uncles Pete and Sebastian cared for the family making sure the girls had food, clothes and a roof over their heads.

After the Great Depression had ended, times were still tough in South Dakota. So, the family migrated to Washington State following the work. Looking for a better life, they traveled in an old truck, which later in life was jokingly referred to as their "motorhome". They moved to places like Arlington, Douglas and Bridgeport, finally ending up and settling in Omak. After graduating from Omak High School, she married Wade Moomaw on June 12, 1948.

Aggie and Wade began ranching in 1950, on the Colville Indian Reservation near Disautel, WA, where she lived until June 2021.

Besides ranching she worked in the apple sheds packing apples and enjoyed volunteering at the Omak Senior Center and Omak Stampede Museum.

For each of her three children, she was known as the best room mother at school for her homemade popcorn balls and taffy. Her home was always open to friends and family who needed a place to stay.

Arrangements assisted by Chapel of the Valley, East Wenatchee.
