“ An exceptional lady has left us to join her husband Orié. She was a member of the Couch family for more than 37 years. My visits with her were special as she shared some of the unique little things that meant so much to her. If you were visiting family on your birthday or they at your house, people set their alarms to get up in the middle of the night to wish you a happy birthday. She treasured the time she spent with family. Even though some of us lived on the other side of the state she was always pleased to hear from us or see us. The joy she brought in to my Uncle Orié's life was such a blessing to all of us. Even though he had endured some unbelievable challenges she was truly the crown jewel in his life. May they now rest in peace in heaven as they spend all of eternity together.
