“ I always think of the time you and Jacobe had your wisdom teeth pulled at the same time. I took you guys home and you both insisted on me making you guys a cheeseburger with all the fixings. I argued you guys didn't want them but you both insisted. I made them and brought them to you both. I waited to watch..... both bites in, you both started yelling and crying with blood coming out of your mouths. The more I said I told you so and laughed the more mad you both got..... icecream and jello for the rest of the night lol.
