“ David and I became friends back in early high school days. I have many memories involving him ,his brother, his two sisters, and his mom and stepdad. All made me feel I was a part of their family. David and I studied together and got our Ham radio license. We always talked about doing a back pack trip with some 40 meter gear and climbing to the top of a mountain.

My fondest memory is when David and I went to Los Angeles to pack up his grandma and her belongings and bring them to Phoenix. The generator on Davids truck failed on the hill out of Indio but we made it to the top on the battery and coasted into a rest area. He disassembled the generator to find the carbon brushes had worn out. We both looked into the sky and asked where will we find brushes. A car pulled into the rest area driven by an older man and he parked next to us. We looked in his car and it was full of old generators and starters. We asked if we could get a set of brushes and he said yes all he wanted was the copper for salvage. David found a near new set and installed them. The generator worked and we got home safely.

Yes, David could fix anything.

“ David was my younger brother who I loved very much.

He always gave much and never required anything in payment, but maybe a grateful "thank you."

I remember how easy it was for us to talk, as children and as adults. We would always laugh at all the silly things going on around us.

I think of all the things David had done in his life time and the joy we had shared and I am so grateful for having had such kind, handsome brother as he was.

I know he is in Heaven with my mom and grandma. He is probably helping them make tamales.

Te amo, David, te amo.

“ David was one of my older brothers and though we didn't see much of each other as we grew older I will always remember growing up with him.

There were 4 of us and we were blessed with the ability to carry a tune so my mother taught us songs in 4 part harmony. We would practice in the car, at home or just about where ever we were and David sang bass. We learned songs like Puff the Magic Dragon to The Old Rugged Cross and then Mom would show off our talents to friends and relatives.

I also remember that David loved to "fix" things, he would repair anything that was broken, from toasters and blenders to radios all at a very young age, it was his talent. As he grew older, David used that talent to bless others, he never said "no" to someone with a car problem or any other repair that was needed and he would do it with his contagious smile.

I will miss him, but I know David is with Mom in heaven and is happy and smiling.
