

Richard Stockton Munger

April 9, 1922 - July 7, 2011

Richard S. Munger, 89, of Wenatchee, died Thursday, July 7, 2011.

He was a longtime Wenatchee resident. He had been a physician in the U.S. Army, retiring as a colonel in 1979, and had served as director of the Chelan-Douglas Health District.

Survivors include his wife, Peony Munger of Wenatchee.

A celebration of his life was held on July 9.

Arrangements were by Telford's Chapel of the Valley, East Wenatchee.

Tribute Wall

PC

“ I grew up in Seattle with Tom, Richard, and Robert. Like Willow, they had little contact with their dad. It would be nice to hear from Richard and/or Robert as I haven't seen any of them since 1963-5. I understand Tom has passed.

Pat Campbell - March 06, 2016 at 08:46 PM

WM

“ I am Richard Munger's youngest child and only daughter. I have half-brothers up and down the Pacific Coast. I met two of them, once, and saw my father for the last time when I was two years old. The only memory I have of him is saying goodbye. I remember my mother telling me to say goodbye to my father, so I said, "Goodbye" and he picked me up. I remember being captivated by all the colorful stripes on the front of his olive-green uniform, and touching them while he held me and talked to me.

Willow Munger - September 27, 2011 at 06:35 PM